

#PCSSLEARN

The PCSS Learning Commons has seen some changes over the last few months and we wanted to share some of what is happening.

The First Nations print resources have been moved into the main space in order for students to access. Many of the books have multiple copies and are located in the back room if you would like to use them for small reading groups in your classes. There are also some teacher resources in the collection as well.

The sturgeon nose canoe that was created by Ki Louie's Father has a new case created by students in the woodshop class. This is the centre piece in the front of the library and is part of a new IDEA lab space that houses our makerspace carts along with some student work tables. This area will continue to see changes in the coming months.

A LGBTQ+ history month display was accompanied by a number of new literature purchases. We have also worked with Karin Hawkins and the senior art class to put up some student works in the library. If you have not come through lately it is worth a look.

Presently we are assessing the resources in the back room in order to consolidate the collection and make the space more user friendly.

Yoga in the LLC

Do you feel better when you have a little physical activity? I know I do. This is why we are offering up the library space every Wednesday morning between 7:30 and 8:00am in order to do some yoga as a group.

Have a cup of tea afterwards if you wish. First session is Nov. 4th so come on out!

Teacher Resources

Did you know that the PCSS learning commons has a new website? It has a teacher page with some great resources. If there is something you would like to have added, please let us know. (www.pcssllibrary.com)

If you like to use video in your classroom, it is worth noting that the district pays a licensing fee for a streaming service so that you can show films in class without worrying about copyright infringement.

Criterion On Demand: Search by genre, including: LGBTQ+, Literary Adaptation, Biography, and more. No log-in is required while accessing via school tech on our network at school. A log in is available for off-site prep work. Please see Learning Commons Staff for access. (www.criterionondemand.com)
